DETAILED ACTION

Claims 22 and 35-65, pending in this application, are subject to the following restriction election. Claims 50-52 depend from cancelled claim 1. In the present restriction, the claims are considered to depend from claim 35.

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claim 22, drawn to fusion protein, classified in class 530, subclass 350, for example.
- II. Claims 35-65, drawn to isolated DNA sequence comprising a promoter, intron, nucleic acid encoding a desired protein linked to transit peptide, expression cassette/vector/plant/cell/seed comprising said DNA, classified in class 800, subclass 278, for example.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons: Inventions I and II are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions are directed to divergent products having different structure, function and effects.

The fusion protein of Group I and the DNA of Group II are patentably distinct inventions for the following reasons. Proteins, which are composed of amino acids, and DNA, which are composed of purine and pyrimidine units, are structurally distinct molecules. In addition, while protein of Group I can be made by methods using the DNA of Group II, it can also be recovered from a natural source using by biochemical means. For instance, the polypeptide can be isolated using affinity chromatography. In addition, the regulatory DNA elements of Group II are not required by the invention of Group I, and the fusion protein of Group I is not required by the invention of Group II. For these reasons, the inventions of groups I and II are patentably distinct.

Furthermore, searching the inventions of groups I and II together would impose a serious search burden. In the instant case, the search of the protein and the DNA are not coextensive. A search of one group will not retrieve all arts relevant to the other group, therefore the search of one group cannot be used to determine the patentability of the other group. The two groups require different areas of search and have a separate status in the art as shown by their different classifications. Therefore, the coexamination of the two groups in a single application would impose a search burden.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons set forth above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classifications and their recognized divergent subject matter and because the literature search required for the groups is not coextensive, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
